Professional Background

With an MBA from SDA Bocconi University, I have been in the business world for more than 20 years. I have been in Italy for the past 15 years concentrating my efforts in the executive coaching field as well as strategic management consulting. My primary purpose is to work with individuals and teams in order to make a difference in the way results can be achieved. As a leadership coach I have specialized in on a wide variety of topics ranging from building high performance teams to managing major business transformations. I have worked with top tier telecom, entertainment, and banking organizations in Italy and abroad. My international background has allowed me to embrace new cultures and points of views both in the professional and personal arenas.

My coaching is anchored in navigating the changes and challenges in the business world as part of an organization or when in transition.

Enthusiastic, goal oriented, creative problem solver and adaptable to complex environments are my personal traits.
